Flocknote Sign Up Weekend

This weekend our parish embarks on a new yet familiar way of communicating and keeping parishioner's records.

For some years now we have used Flocknote to send our electronic newsletter, and it has proved to be a very user friendly, convenient and an up to date method of communicating with parishioners.

Until now, when we register parishioners, record sacramental information or received census forms from new or existing parishioners we have recorded this information on a database which is now at the end of its practical use.

Our early adoption of Flocknote some years ago for our online newsletter has now led to the whole Archdiocese adopting this platform as the new database program for all parishes.

As such our parish is well placed for the migration to the new database as many of you are already in the system with your subscription to the Parish Update.

The next step is to ask all parishioners to "sign-up" to Flocknote by following the link <https://OLRKM.flocknote.com/register>

By doing so you will be asked to provide your basic contact information for the first time or update what is currently on record.

The amazing thing about this new way of maintaining our parish database is that you have control to input and update your own personal information, saving many hours of parish administration and giving you the ability to keep your parish registration up to date whenever changes occur. Your information is secure as both Flocknote and the Archdiocese have strict data encryption and security processes in place.

At all Masses this weekend the Parish Manager, Michael Finch will be giving a brief talk on the sign-up process and will be available for questions following Mass. We thank you for your support of this new initiative. Fr Mark Franklin, Parish Priest
